'Minimise Risk – Maximise Safety'

Fendley Consultancy is committed to providing the highest quality service, and to maintaining a safe environment for our clients, employees, contractors and the community.

Fendley Consultancy has embedded throughout its HSE Management System a risk management approach. Fendley Consultancy adopts and applies this Risk Management approach to all services and activities and requires of all its personnel and consultants to adopt and apply this same approach.

HSE Risk management processes are applied to all activities that Fendley Consultancy controls or can influence. HSE risks and opportunities are assessed, prioritised and managed as appropriate to the nature, scale and HSE impacts of the operations and activities. This process takes into account health and safety, human rights, the surrounding physical, ecological, social and cultural environment, biodiversity, applicable legal and other requirements and financial implications. The hierarchy of control is used in the development of risk mitigation activities

Effective risk management systems and practices assist us to operate efficiently, achieve business objectives, ensure reliable reporting and comply with applicable laws and regulations.

Fendley Consultancy Risk Management applications are based on AS/NZS 4360, assisting in ensuring a common approach towards the management and reporting of risk within the Industry.
